YELDELL'S NARROW ESCAPE.

It Turns Out that Only with the Greatest Difficulty Was He Saved from Mob Violence.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 13.—The trial and acquittal of John Yeldell and his escape from the lynching party in Edgefield, are still the principal subject of talk in Columbia. The people in every part of the State are intensely relieved at his escape from violence at the hands of the few lawless friends of Blackwell, the murdered man. The negroes outside of Edgefield have given the trial and peril of Yeldell little or no attention, but the whites have been deeply interested, as they realized that the honor of the State was at stake. Every effort was made to secure the safety of Yeldell, and it required the greatest vigilance to prevent his murder in the court-house. Later reports from Edgefield explain the reason why Yeldell was absent from court when the jury rendered its verdict. It seems that Mr. Benet, one of Yeldell's lawyers, was approached by the solicitor, who informed him that it was impossible for him to give the source of his informa-tion, but that if a verdict of "not guilty" was rendered, and Yeldell was in the dock, he would be shot down there in the presence of the court. The matter was placed before the judge, who issued an order to require Yeldell's detention in jail when the verdict was brought in. This circumstance probably saved his life from being taken and the law outraged by some mad men from the "dark corner" of Edgefield county. It was not until after Yeldell was safely out of Edgetield that he acknowledged that he was anything else but the Rev. Mr. Flem-on. Last night, however, he acknowledged being present at the killing of officer Blackwell, but denied having fired a shot. He was only armed with a pistol and Black-well was killed with a shotgun. When replied: "By the name that sounded best to the people of Pittsburg." Subsequently, when asked for his autograph, he wrote "John Yeldell." He will go to Wilberforce College. THE ATTITUDE OF RUSSIA

Will the Slavonic Despotism Submit to the Power of the Triple Alliance?

> While the Czar Will Make a Friendly Visit to Berlin, the Germans Seem to Think He Is Calculating Upon Ultimate War.

The Austrian and German Emperors Pledged to Maintain the Alliance.

Conference Between Bismarck and Francis Joseph-Gen. Boulanger and His Friends Found Guilty-Mrs. May brick in Prison.

THE RUSSIAN CZAR.

He Will Visit Berlin, but the German Pres Insists that He Means War.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LONDON, Aug. 13.-The simple-minded American reader who has caught the echoes of the German alarmist press and has become impressed with the force of their reasoning, that the failure of the Czar to visit the German Emperor shows he wants war, may imagine that, now that it is definitely announced that this visit is to come off, these papers will drop their sanguinary tone. Nothing could be wider of the mark. The Czar's not coming, of course, proved war, but his coming proves war just the same. The processes by which they demonstrate this proposition are quite ingenious, if not strictly logical, but with this American readers have little concern. What is important, however, is that these sheets really express the convictions of a large and growing party in Germany who believe, that war is at hand, and with whom, furthermore, the wish is father to the thought. What is more significant than the vaporizing of the chronic war-mongers is the tone of the Conservative press on the Czar's visit. It is clear that whatever augury of peace and good will such a visit would have been six months ago, even these influential and conservative papers derive little com-fort from it now. It is pointed out that every element of spontaneity is lacking. and it is only too evident that the Czar is coming to Berlin now because M. De Giers insists upon it, and because the Russian Finance Minister, Vysh-negradski, finds his schemes blocked on every bourse in Europe because of his master's obstinacy in refusing to return the German Emperor's visit. That the Czar required much urging and entreaty before he would consent to do the violence to his own feelings which the visit involves, is no secret in Berlin. When his famous "Only Friend" toast to the Prince of Montenegro, recently, had set all Europe in a ferment, and Russian securities were tumbling on all the bourses, the Czar's Finance Minister, in sheer desperation, besought him to hasten to Berlin, and thus quiet the alarm his ill-timed speech had created. At that time his Majesty answered in Russian, and such Russian as drove the frightened Minister trembling from his angry master's presence. When all this is well known in Germany, it is not at all strange that the coming visit should fail to be accepted everywhere as a whitewinged messenger of peace.

Russia's Defy.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.-The Novoe remya, in an inspired article, says: "The outside powers will make themselves sorely felt when the triple alliance attains its real object, that is, war."

THE AUSTRIAN EMPEROR'S VISIT. He and Kaiser Wilhelm Toast Each Other

Warmly-Conference with Bismarck. BERLIN, Aug. 13.-The whole army corps of the Guards paraded, to-day, before the Emperor of Austria, making a brilliant display. The weather was splendid. The Empress appeared on horseback. Emperor William commanded the troops, and led, first, the entire corps, and afterwards the First Regiment of the Guards passed the visiting sovereign, who then headed the demanded by the new scale and an effort regiment bearing his name and marched past Emperor William.

> Emperor Francis Joseph and Prince Bismarck were closeted together for an hour and ten minutes to-day. Subsequently the Chancellor and Count Kalnoky conferred together, the interview lasting an hour. A banquet was given at the Schloss this evening. Emperor William, in a toast, warmly welcomed the Austrian Emperor, > and said: You have learned, from the joyful reception given you, of our warm and lively consciousness of the friendship that has existed between our peoples for a century. Before all is our army, a portion of which you have seen, proud of appearing before your keen, soldierly eye. My people, like the army, will hold firmly and faithfully to the alliance which we have concluded. The army knows that for the maintenance of peace it will have to join the gallant army of Austria, and, if Providence so decrees, they will fight together, shoulder to shoulder.

Emperor Francis Joseph returned thanks for the brilliant reception accorded him. He drank to the health of his friend and ally, so near to his heart, inseparable in brotherhood and comradeship, to the health of the gallant armies of Germany and Austria, and to the strengthening of the guarantees of peace for the allied states and the whole of Europe.

Boulanger. The Regiment, of Greensburg, were sent to the grounds this morning. The making of coke will be resumed at the Hecla works in the court discussed at length its course of procedure and its competency to try Gen. Boulanger. It was finally decided by a vote of 201 to 7 that the court was competent to try charged with conspiracy and inciting riot, and were brought to Greensburg and comthe General on all the counts of the indictment. Two of the Senators refrained from voting. The court then, by 206 votes, found the General guilty of conspiracy. Six of the Senators did not vote. The court then found Count Dillon and M. Rochefort guilty of complicity in the plot. It also decided by a vote of 198 to 10 that Bou-langer was guilty of a treasonable attempt union-made iron, although objecting to do so. No open revolt had occurred, however, until in the present instance. The men on Saturday decided not to work any more of against the state in connection with the license depot incident.

The state council has annulled the elections in twelve cantons in which Gen. Boulanger was elected to the Councils-general on the ground that the General was not legally eligible for the position. Gen. Bou-langer has written a letter in which he states that he gave the sums of money which he is accused of embezzling to the chief clerks in the War Office to be used for the relief of widows and orphans of soldiers. Five lodgers in the house of Madame Pourpres, the former mistress of Gen. Boulanger, have sworn that the General was in Paris on July 15, 1887, the day on which it is alleged he visited the city in disguise.

THE SHAH'S CARELESSNESS.

Indifference of the Persian Monarch and His Suite Concerning Their Valuables.

London Letter in New York World. A sharp detective from Scotland Yard with the Shah. He had nothing to do but see that the Eastern nabob and the members of his suite did not get molested by a shrewd gang of crooks who followed them from London, waiting for a chance to snatch some of their jewels. If it were generally known how careless the Shah is with his jewels he would not carry many of them home with him. But Scotland Yard knows it, and knows also that some of the cleverest thieves out of jail have been informed of it. Four men who have put up some of the biggest jobs in the country, though the police have never been able to get them within reach of the law, followed the Shah on his travels. They saw the Scotland Yard man, of course, and knew hum well enough. But even the sharpest of detectives have been outwitted at times, and these four fellows chanced it on this trip. So far as has been reported they got nothing. The Shah and all the members of his suite think nothing of carrying thousands and thousands of dollars' worth of jewels about with them in their pockets. They leave them loose in their rooms where servants can make off with them easily enough if disposed to be dishonest. While the Shah was stopping in one of the big Lancashire manufacturing towns one of his suite wanted to see the seamy side of the city, and particularly to have the handcuffs put on him in the police-station. He was accommodated. A couple of his associates accompanied him, all in tow of the Scotland Yard man. They strolled along through the slums, surrounded all the time by a crowd of learious toughs, anxious to see the fun, if there was any going. In emptying his pockets for some change one member of the suite displayed a valuable jewel or two. He was reproached for his carelessness. By way of reply he pulled a bit of chamois skin out of another pocket, unfolded it, and revealed to astonished eyes the Shah's big emerald, which had been given him for safe keeping.

The woman that the Shah took about with him dressed up in men's clothes lost much of her shyness after she got away from the staring crowds of London, and enjoyed herself thoroughly further north. She has a very "fetching" way of peeping at men out of the corners of her eyes, which would be a godsend to giris who affect shyness. Newspaper men and others who were detailed to follow the Shah on his travels, and had ma

Newspaper men and others who were detailed to follow the Shah on his travels, and had many an opportunity of watching this strange little Persian woman, say that they never once saw her look straight at a man, though she closely observed the manners and dress of all the women with whom she came in contact. She never dined with the rest of the Shah's suite. Her meals were usually served to her in her own apartments.

all the trains were delayed. The casual-ties were numerous. William Currens, blinded by the rain, drove into the Blue river, near Clinton, Kan., and was drowned. Frederick W. Chase was struck by light-ning, at Olathe, and killed. At Atchison several buildings were blown down.

A "FLOWER PARADE."

The President Witnesses a Unique and Pleasing Spectacle at Bar Harbor.

.BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 13 .- President Harrison received a warm greeting upon his arrival here to-day on his return from the Ellsworth visit by the mid-day boat. He breakfasted with Senator Hale this morning. Subsequently Hon. John B. Redman, recently Democratic candidate for Governor; Mr. Nicholas, of Minneapolis, and other gentlemen called on the Prestdent. Then Senator Hale drove Mr. Harrison and Secretaries Blaine and Tracy in his carriage to the depot, other members of the party following on buckboards. At the Bar Harbor wharf a good-sized crowd greeted the President and cheered vigorously as he passed along to the carriage which was to take himself and friends to Stanwood. Very soon after arriving at Bar Harbor

President Harrison lunched with Mr. W. B. Howard, whose cottage, Mossley Hall, stands directly opposite Stanwood. Then the driving floral parade called for attention. The party then drove to the Kebo Valley Club grounds in order to witness it. President Harrison and Mrs. Blaine occupied the first carriage. Secretary Blaine was in the second. At one end of the promenade at the club, house a section had been decorated with American flags and reserved, and from it the President and Secretary Blaine looked at the beautiful effects which were produced below. Secretary Tracy looked on from a carriage. From one end of the promenade to the other, in the band-stand, on the ground in front of the club-house and in the concourse just opposite was a great gatherconcourse just opposite was a great gatherering of spectators; while along the race track went about thirty vehicles of various styles, and decorated in various unusual ways. All these vehicles contained prominent residents of Bar Harbor and the neighborhood, ladies being largely! in the majority. "Golden Rod" decorated the first buckboard, which was occupied by a dozen young ladies, drawn by four white horses. Each of the ladies held a stalk of golden rod, and an end of a ribbon of that color which dangled from a center piece above. Their white dresses, as well as the buckboard, were lavishly trummed with the flower. In the four-horse carriages following the floral decorations of lavender, yellow and purple had been liberally applied, and other carriages were decorated and dressed just as thoroughly, and each succeeding turn-out brought a new surprise. Miss Margaret Blaine drove a phaeton whose, wheels even were covered with flowers. In reality, almost every carriage, with its floral adornment, had new features in decorating. The procession went by the President, and then it drove off into town, and upon its return disband ed. Lunch was served for the guests, and the gathering practically resolved itself into a lawn party. President Harrison, Secretary Blaine and their party afterward dined at the house of Mr. W. S. Gurnee, and a musical call followed. To-morrow the President will say good-bye to his host, and at 8:20 A. M. will begin his return to

SHERMAN'S SHORTAGE.

The Buffalo Elevator Man Got Away with $375,000-Under Arrest.

BUFFALO, Aug. 13 .- S. F. Sherman, of the defunct firm of Sherman Bros. & Co., whose irregularities in connection with grain elevators caused a large deficiency, was arrested last night on warrants charging him raigned in the police court to-day, and and Sherman was taken to jail. Edward C. Loveridge, late assistant manager of the associated elevators, was also arrested last night on charges similar to those made

Mr. Edward C. Hawks said: "I am the complainant in the case in my own behalf, on behalf of those who like myself own stock in the elevators, and in the public interest. The elevators have received a large amount of grain. Warehouse receipts have been is-sued for the amount, and there is no grain in the elevator to satisfy those receipts. S. F. Sherman had charge of the associated elevators. Mr. Loveridge had been the assistant manager, and had exercised similar powers to those wielded by Mr. Sherman." From an official source it was learned that the total shortage of the different ele-vators, the Lake Shore, the International and the Dakota, amounted to $375,000. The value of the elevator stock recovered is $200,000, so that the loss to be met by the elevator owners is $175,000.

VIRGINIA DEMOCRATS.

"Anything to Beat Mahone"-At Sea on the Tariff Question.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. Washington, Aug. 18 .- The name of Mahone is a nightmare to the Democrats who, to-morrow, meet in convention at Richmond to nominate a successor to Governor Fitzhugh Lee. Their cry is "anything to beat the little wizard," but they are having heaps of trouble to choose a candidate who will undertake the job. To-night there are no less than six candidates in the field, with Capt. P. W. McKinney and Col. Richard T. Beirne, editor of the State, running a nip-and-tuck race for first place. The other candidates are Col. C. F. O'Farrell, John T. Harris, S. W. Venable and J. Hage Tyler, who is the choice of the Farmers' Alliance. McKinney's friends figure out 600 votes for him on the first ballot. Beirne's supporters claim 400 while O'Farrell says he is sure of 478. This leaves but twenty-two to be divided among the three other aspirants. Adherents of Captain Venable, who has the cordial support of Senator Barbour, insist that there will be a tremendous fight between McKinney, Beirne and O'Farrell, and that a compromise will be made on Boss Barbour's favorite. That there will be a red-hot battle over the adoption of any provision in-dorsing the free trade of Cleveland, Mills and Carlisle seems surely imminent. Dele-gates who left here for the seat of war this afternoon declared that the protection sen-timent was so strong in the Old Dominion that it would prove fatal to Barbour's success should the principles laid down at St.
Louis in 1884 be reaffirmed. A straddle which the Barbour crowd hopes will be acceptable to protectionists and free-traders alike is anticipated. The Old Dominion
Republicans are so theroughly reunited that should General Mahone consent to accept, his nomination by acclamation seems a foregone conclusion. In case he declines to run Col. William Lamb, of Norfolk, it is believed, will be the candidate to redeem the Old Dominion from Democratic mis-

JOHN BROWN'S GIBBET. It Will Be Exhibited to Raise Funds for a Monument to the Old Hero. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.-Gen. James B. Coit, of this city, who recently purchased the timber which formed the scaffolding upon which John Brown was hanged, says that he intends to have the structure restored to its original shape and to exhibit it through the country. The scaffold was erected in 1859 by David H. Cockerill. Brown was hanged upon it on the 2d of December of that year, and on the 16th of the same month Coppic, Green, Copeland and another followed. It was then taken down and again erected in March of the year following, when Hazlett and Stevens were hanged. It was subsequently presented to Cockerill by Judge B. B. Davenport, of the Jefferson county court; subsequently it was made into a porch of a house and remained there until 1883, when the owner thought it might have a value as a relic and it was taken down and stored in the second story of the jail. General Coit happened to be in Charlestown and learned of the existence with grand larceny and irregularities in handling commercial paper. He was ar- which overlooks the scene of Brown's exploits, and he conceived the idea of erectpleaded not guilty. As the amount involved is over $5,000 the judge had no jurisdiction, to secure possession of the scaffold and to put it in the hands of some one who would properly exhibit it through the country. His idea is to use all the funds obtained from the exhibition, after paying the expenses, for the purpose of erecting the proposed statue, and as Harper's Ferry has become a place of popular resort recently, it is probable that the enterprise will meet with very general approval. The scaffold was shipped on Saturday last to Washington, and is expected here to-morrow.

THE RACE TROUBLE IN ATLANTA. Acting Postmaster-General Clarkson Explains Its Origin. WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.-A reporter of the Associated Press called on acting Postmaster-general Clarkson to-day for information in regard to the appointment of a negro clerk by the new post-master at Atlanta, Ga., Gen. Lewis, which resulted in much excitement and the burning in effigy of Postmaster Lewis and General Buck, a leading Republican of the State. General Clarkson said:

The story, as it was printed in the Atlanta papers and sent North, was to the effect that Postmaster Lewis had appointed a negro clerk and assigned him to duty at the same desk with a young white woman. The real facts, however, are these: After General Lewis's appointment one of the registry clerks resigned. The post-master then appointed Chas. C. Penny, colored, who stood at the head of the civil-service list of eligibles, as he was compelled by law to do. He was assigned to work in the registry division; not in the same room with the young lady, but in another. This young lady and her father, who was superintendent of the registry division and had the assignment of the clerks, both resigned, simply because a negro had been appointed to a place in the office, and not because an attempt had been made to place a negro at the same desk with the young lady. From this grew all the trouble in Atlanta. There were five negro clerks in the Atlanta postoffice under the Democratic postmaster, and for six years a young white lady has been at the stamp window selling stamps to all people, black and white. There is nothing in the matter for the department to act on, and there is nothing in the action of Postmaster Lewis to be criticised by fair-minded people. Instead of doing anything violently against the Southern prejudice towards negroes, the postmaster sought, in making the appointment, to obviate any ground for objection on account of such prejudice. In the postal service we find many of our efficient men are among the colored men. We have probably hundreds of them in the service altogether, and they make a good average record.

EXPORT CATTLE.

Secretary Rusk Advises the Utmost Caution to Prevent Splenetic Fever.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Secretary Rusk has found it necessary to supplement his circular letter of last July, prescribing regulations and rules for disinfection in the transportation of cattle from the Texas fever district, with an additional order referring particularly to the special precautions, necessary to prevent any possibility of the infection of cattle selected for exportation. To-day an additional order was issued to managers and agents of railroad transportation companies of the
